BEIGHTON TO SIR EDWARD HAWKE. MOST nonuann AND coon SIR, Egham, March 7. 1768 I MUST make a great apology for the freedom of this epistle; or, otherwise, you will be apt to think there will be no end of my application: pardon me but this once, and I promise on my word and honour never to teaze you any more. I write at the solicitation of the best friend I have in all the world, and that dear friend is Mr. Garrick, at whose request my Lord Chancellor has lately given me a very pretty living in our neighbourhood, which has made me extremely happy, and without it I must have been most miserable, as the help, on account of my frequent infirmities I am obliged to have, would run away with most of my former income. How happy...
